

Herbalist RH (AHG), MSc – Lise Wolff LLC

I am a professional member in good standing of the American Herbalists Guild. The AHG is the only professional botanical medicine organization in the U.S. to assure a standard of excellence for practitioners. I have a Masters of Science degree in Herbalism from the University of Wales. A Masters is the highest level of academic education in herbalism.

I have been in clinical practice since 1995. This includes three years as resident Herbalist at Present Moment Herb Store in Minneapolis.

I have independently taught herbalism since 1996 throughout the Twin Cities area, as well as being sponsored by institutions such as the Bakken Museum, Minnesota Landscape Arboretum, the University of Minnesota Complete Scholar Program. I currently teach for the University of Minnesota through their Doctorate of Nursing Practice program and School of Spirituality and Healing, as well as being adjunct faculty at St Catherine's Master of Holistic Health Studies. I have also taught a ten-month herbalist training program since 1997.

Training

1990, nine months under Robin Bennett, a New York herbalist of the Wise Woman tradition.
I simultaneously learned wild food uses and plant identification from Steve Brill.

1991, I returned to Minnesota and studied under Chris Hafner, L.A.c.

I was a student of Matthew Wood for six years, including a one-year apprenticeship in 1995.

I have also studied (in total) six months with Tismal Crow, a Muskogee.

I have completed the Bach Flower Essence Seminars, Levels I and II. I have studied in California with the Flower Essence Society (FES). I have also attended a six-month advanced course with flower essence practitioner Martin Bulgerin.

I am a 1989 graduate of Macalester College with a History major. I then returned to school for biology, chemistry, anatomy/physiology, medical terminology and botany courses.

In 2008 I was awarded an MSc in Herbalism through the University of Wales in Glasgow, Scotland.

Theoretical Approach & Assessment

As an herbalist, my goal is to facilitate the body's innate ability to heal itself. I take a holistic approach, seeing each client as a unique individual. I use assessment techniques including homeopathic indications, Chinese concepts of organ systems and meridians, tongue and facial diagnosis, intuition and pulse testing. I also utilize a fairly standard Western understanding of anatomy and physiology.
